Discussion on Priorities of City Ordinances

Public Works and Development Director Jim Hossley stated in effort to manage day-to-day tasks and in consideration of the departments limited staffing, staff requested direction from the Council on prioritizing the following projects: an ordinance to regulate wind energy conversion systems in the city; the revision of design standards for the Empire design area on Newmark Avenue; and vending in the downtown area. Mr. Hossley also noted the city needed to adopt the newly proposed FEMA floodplain maps next year as well as proposed changes to Chapter 17.195, Flood Damage Prevention, of the Coos Bay Municipal Code (CBMC). The discussion on prioritizing City Ordinances was tabled pending further discussion on Wind Energy Conversion Systems.

Review of Wind Energy Conversion Systems

Public Works and Development Director Jim Hossley provided a brief overview on Wind Energy Conversion Systems (WECS) basics, designs, scaling, wind averages, and ratings. On September 11, and October 9, 2012 the Planning Commission held work sessions to discuss the concept of wind turbines in the city. Based on those discussions the Planning Commission recommended wind turbines not be allowed in the city limits; but if a significant proposal were presented, the issued could be reconsidered. Mr. Hossley advised staff also sought input from the Energy Trust of Oregon (ETO) and through on on-line survey. Chris Dearth from the ETO stated to be eligible for state incentives the tower for the turbine must be a minimum of 70 feet in height and generally on one (1) acre of land. The Council was provided a copy of the online survey results which resulted in approximately 150 responses. Mr. Hossley requested the Council to consider the following options based on the Planning Commission's recommendations: Postpone work on ordinance provisions for wind energy conversion systems in the city; schedule a joint work session with the Planning Commission to discuss moving forward with an ordinance; or prepare a draft ordinance for wind energy conversion systems that are a maximum of 20 feet in height as described in the micro wind energy facility summary.

Ken Folker, Coos Bay: stated he was in favor of WECS; inquired if attic vents could be converted to utilize wind energy and if WECS could be installed from on a second story building. Mr. Hossley explained the installation WECS needed to be from ground level. Jody McCaffree, North Bend: stated she was in favor of WECS and suggested a moratorium would send the wrong message to potential businesses and energy conservation programs. Jeff Marineau, Coos Bay: stated he was a representative of the Planning Commission and expressed concern about the impact WECS would have on various viewscapes throughout Coos Bay. Discussion commenced on the various options in which the Council could proceed. Mayor Shoji inquired if the City could allow the micro scale turbines as long as they met the setback and height limitations. Mr. Hossley advised existing code did not cover WECS specifically, so the height limitations would be based on zone, and the structural integrity of the system would be based on building and electrical code. Major Shoji inquired what would happen if the City removed the moratorium and put in place the defined micro wind energy requirements. City Attorney Nate McClintock suggested the existing WECS moratorium should be modified to allow the specific types or heights of WECS. It was the consensus of the Council to direct staff to prepare a draft ordinance for wind energy conversion systems with a maximum of 20 feet in height as described in the micro wind energy facility summary.

Continuation of Discussion on Priorities of City Ordinances

It was the consensus of the Council to direct staff to prioritize City Ordinances in the following order: FEMA floodplain mapping, vending in the downtown area, revision of design standards for the Empire design area on Newmark Avenue, and to prepare a draft ordinance for wind energy conversion systems with a maximum of 20 feet in height as described in the micro wind energy facility summary.

value analysis (VA) process, and Facility Plan Amendment (FPA). Mr. Hossley advised the FPA was submitted to DEQ on June 1, 2012 and due to the close coordination between the City and DEQ throughout the process, the city received minor plan review comments. The FPA was being updated to incorporate DEQ's comments and would likely be resubmitted within the current week. The current Mutual Agreement Order (MAO) for updates required a number of mandates which must be completed within the designated deadline. Mr. Hossley advised the next critical deadline in the MAO schedule was the completion of the predesign report for WWTP #2. Upon approval of the FPA, staff would like to immediately move forward with the preparation of the WWTP 2 Predesign Report.
