ISSUE: Healthy Eating Active Living (HEAL) Cities Campaign

BACKGROUND:

Since 2012, the League of Oregon Cities and the Oregon Public Health Institute have been working statewide to help civic leaders create healthy communities through the Healthy Eating Active Living (HEAL) Cities Campaign.

The campaign highlights the crucial role municipalities can play in creating healthy communities for their residents by adopting policies that expand healthy options where residents live, work, shop, learn, and play. The campaign offers many tools to cities including:

- A policy library and one-page info sheets with guidance on the most popular HEAL options;
- Periodic webinars featuring national experts and the perspective of local government leaders;
- Free consultation and technical assistance, and;
- Grants assistance to HEAL Cities for implementation of HEAL polices.

The first step in becoming a HEAL City and becoming eligible for HEAL grants is adoption of the attached HEAL City resolution.

ADVANTAGES:

Participating in HEAL City program will allow access to information, services, and funds which could benefit our community.

DISADVANTAGES:

None identified.

BUDGET IMPLICATIONS:

None at this time.
